Marina di Livorno

The newest addition to the D-Marin net of premium marinas, a perfect starting point to explore Tuscany and hidden coves of Ligurian Sea

This completely new marina with 500 berths will be located in the very center of Livorno, the historic Italian harbour city, close to the famous Azimut Benetti ship yards.

Things To Do & Facilities

Just a short drive from the vibrant cities of Florence and Pisa lies Livorno, an unassuming yet captivating port city in Italy. Renowned for its authentic seaside cuisine, Livorno seamlessly blends modernity with medieval charm, boasting a rich tapestry of architecture, world-class art, and diverse culinary delights. Despite being overshadowed by more popular Tuscan destinations, Livorno is a hidden gem waiting to be explored.

As you savor the coastal flavors, you'll encounter the term "alla livornese," signifying Livornese style. This distinctive culinary approach features dishes with a luscious tomato sauce base infused with a spicy twist, adding a unique flair to the dining experience. Don't let Livorno slip through the cracks as you plan your Tuscan itinerary—our curated list of top foods to try ensures you won't miss out on the array of delectable snacks and street foods that the city and its surroundings have to offer!

MUST-SEE

Livorno, Italy is Tuscany's third-largest city and a major port with a tumultuous past. For many, it's the gateway to the vineyard-stripped hinterland and Renaissance big beasts of Florence, Siena, and Pisa.

Because of this, Livorno may just be Tuscany's most authentic city. Any traveler who takes the time to wander among the broad-chested, pastel-painted merchant houses of its Renaissance-era canal district or nip into off-the-beaten-path neighborhoods like San Jacopo will discover its distinctive character and charm.

Historic fortifications such as the Fortezza Vecchia dominate the scene with its blushing brick walls descending directly into the azure water.

The neoclassical Terrazza Mascagni is one of the nicest places to stroll along the Livorno waterfront—the locals call it their "window to the sea". This grand checkerboard promenade, obliterated in World War II, was precisely rebuilt to its original specifications in the late 1990s.

The city's most picturesque neighborhood, the 17th century Venezia Nuova, a network of canals, leads off from the port and is a must to explore.
